Belgium's Oldest Town

A bronze statue of Ambiorix, King of the Belgae, stands prominently in front of a multi-story brick building. The statue depicts a muscular man with a long, flowing beard and hair, wearing a simple loincloth. He is shown in a three-quarter view, looking towards the right. The building behind him features a mix of red brick and grey stone masonry, with several windows of varying sizes and decorative wrought-iron elements. The scene is captured in bright daylight, with shadows cast on the building's facade.
